SUPERSEDING INFORMATION
S2 07 Cr. 1143 (DC)

COUNT ONE

(Conspiracy)

The United States Attorney charges:

Overview of the Smuggling Scheme

1. At all times relevant to this Information ("Information"), the Port of Newark-Elizabeth Marine Terminal (the "Port" or "Port Newark") served as the principal container ship facility for the New York City metropolitan area for goods entering and leaving the United States by sea.
2. At all times relevant to this Information, CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a "Grace Quezon," the defendant, and her co-conspirators participated in a global criminal enterprise which smuggled and attempted to smuggle into the United States more than one hundred 40-foot-long shipping containers containing at least $200 million in counterfeit merchandise from China through United States ports, including through Port Newark.
3. As part of the scheme, CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a

"Grace Quezon," the defendant, and her co-conspirators smuggled Chinese-made counterfeit goods into the United States through the Port by using shipping containers with false bills of lading. A bill of lading is a document issued by a shipping carrier which, among other things, reflects that specified goods have been received by the shipper as cargo for conveyance to a named location for delivery to a consignee, usually identified in the document. After the containers cleared United States Bureau of Customs and Border Protection ("CBP") inspection protocols at Port Newark, the smugglers typically transported the containers to warehouses throughout the New York City metropolitan area for short-term storage pending distribution to retail-level customers.

4. During the course of the smuggling scheme, from at least in or about August 2006 through in or about December 2007, members of the smuggling operation maintained nearly-daily contact with a Special Agent of the United States Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement ("ICE"), acting in an undercover capacity (the "UC"), who posed as a corrupt officer of the longshoremen's union who could facilitate the movement of counterfeit merchandise through Port Newark without detection and seizure by CBP. CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a "Grace Quezon," the defendant, and her co-conspirators paid the UC an aggregate of more than $500,000 in cash in return for purportedly helping to clear through CBP more than one hundred containers loaded with counterfeit goods for distribution in the American retail markets. The retail value of genuine versions of this counterfeit merchandise exceeds approximately $200 million.

Relevant Persons and Entities

5. Beginning in or about August 2006, Michael Chu, a/k/a "Michael Choi," a/k/a "Schuching M. Chu," a/k/a "Shu Ching Chu," a/k/a "Michael Shuching Chu," a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, solicited the UC's help in moving containers of counterfeit merchandise through the Port. Since their initial meeting, Chu met frequently with the UC to provide the UC information about incoming containers of counterfeit goods and paid the UC over one hundred thousand dollars in cash for the UC's purported efforts in facilitating the smuggling of the counterfeit goods through the Port.

6. At certain times relevant to this Information, Dick Ong, a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, was an associate of Chu, who assisted Chu in smuggling containers of counterfeit goods through the Port.

7. At certain times relevant to this Information, Hsi Feng Li, a/k/a "The General," a/k/a "Xue Feng Li," a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, utilized Chu and the UC to smuggle into the United States at least one container of counterfeit goods.

8. Robin Huff, a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, participated in the criminal scheme since at least in or around November 2006. Huff, a licensed customs broker, had access to a CBP database that allowed licensed customs brokers to ascertain the status of containers that were en route or had arrived at the Port. At certain times relevant to this Information, Huff exploited his access to this CBP database to facilitate the movement of counterfeit goods through the Port on behalf of the criminal organization.

9. CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a "Grace Quezon," the defendant, initially worked for Michael Chu in the smuggling scheme. Subsequently, DABAO directly solicited the UC's assistance in smuggling goods through the Port and, together with her associates, paid hundreds of thousands of dollars to the UC for his purported assistance in the smuggling of counterfeit merchandise from China through the Port.

10. At certain times relevant to this Information, Wing Ki Lee and Troy King, co-conspirators not charged as defendants herein, and a co-conspirator referred to herein as "CC-1", were associates of CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a "Grace Quezon," the defendant, and assisted DABAO in smuggling containers of counterfeit goods through the Port.

11. Beginning in or around August 2007, Yee Khiong Ting, a/k/a "Mr. Ding," a/k/a "Paul Ding," a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, solicited the UC's assistance in smuggling shipments of counterfeit merchandise on behalf of a co-conspirator referred to herein as "CC-2". CC-2 had factories in China that manufactured some of the counterfeit merchandise that the organization sought to smuggle into the United States. Ting provided cash payments to the UC in return for his purported assistance in successfully clearing containers through CBP protocols.

12. At all times relevant to this Information, KT Express was a Brooklyn-based trucking company owned and managed by Chi On Wong, a/k/a "Tommy Wong," and Man Wai Cheng, a/k/a "Man Wei Chen," a/k/a "Tina Wong," co-conspirators not charged as defendants herein. At certain times relevant to this Information, to transport containers that they believed the UC had corruptly arranged for entry into the United States, members of the organization, including CHARMAINE DABAO, a/k/a "Grace Quezon," the defendant, and Yee Khiong Ting, a/k/a "Mr. Ding," a/k/a "Paul Ding," Troy King, Wing Ki Lee, a/k/a "Joe," co-conspirators not charged as defendants herein, and CC-2 employed KT Express as part of their smuggling operation. Under their arrangement with Wong and Cheng, members of the organization paid KT Express a premium to transport containers of counterfeit goods.

13. At certain times relevant to this Information,

Shaofeng Shi, a/k/a "Simon CP," a co-conspirator not charged as a defendant herein, controlled a warehouse in Linden, New Jersey, where containers of counterfeit goods smuggled by the smuggling organization were delivered for short-term storage pending distribution to retail-level customers.
